So tonight I finally confronted directly my ex-partner at First Jefferson Unitarian Universalist Church regarding his disloyal behavior and as I expected he gave all sorts of bullshit excuses (his phone was broke, he didn't want me to worry, he was moving to save money, his "friend" helps him with many things and vice versa) and I just brushed them all aside and said, "It is clear that you have chosen Billy [the other guy] over me and that is unacceptable. We are DONE!" It was loud and it was bitter.....but I got through it. Now I am moving on.

Dale, I am very sorry that you went through this. I wish you much better success in finding the ideal partner for you!

He never apologized, never said that he was sorry for hurting me, tried to justify EVERYTHING he did instead of admitting he screwed me over. I refuse to accept that sort of attitude!

If John Wiley had told me three weeks ago, "I'm sorry, but this is ... See more Honestly, I am glad you ended it. You deserve better.

I'm sad that you're going through this. The excessive far fetched excuses were getting ridiculous, insulting your intelligence. Notice how he couldn't just say I'm sorry. Just more excuses and BS. People like that will NEVER ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY for hurting others. John Wiley just abandoned his relationship, property and apartment, without looking back.
Protect yourself in the future from compulsive liars. That John just couldn't tell the truth. You are all about being HONEST, RESPONSIBLE and LOYAL. By his behavior, John was the opposite... deceptive and manipulative. You ended things in an honorable way. He didn't. John disappeared while still in a relationship with you, refusing to answer you until you threatened to call police out of genuine worry and concern. He is a COWARD!
He didn't even deserve you as a friend, after the disrespectful way he treated you. To be so selfish as to pull TWO Disappearing Acts with ZERO contact for over a WEEK each time, and letting you worry about him. The Jerk couldn't even respond... except to say "my cell phone wouldn't charge for a week" and the second time "oh my cell phone broke!" And he didn't know a single soul on the planet who had another cell phone or computer.
I am really upset that he hurt such a good friend like you. You're honest, honorable, thoughtful, kind, and respectful person Dale. You deserve RESPECT and honest communication in return. I wish you only the best in the future.

Yes, he claimed he had not even memorized my cell phone number. As Sarah Mayer noted, he could have contacted me via Facebook too. Most cell phones, even primitive flip phones, can access Facebook. I sent him messages via Facebook too, in addition to text messages and calls leaving a recorded verbal message. NONE of them were answered.

The first time he disappeared, he claimed he did not want me to worry about him, hence he not contacting me. So instead I nearly get a heart attack from seeing from a Facebook post that he was in hospital! Now I see I should have dumped him after that, but I forgave him and gave him another chance.....which he also failed!

When you get a chance: I need you to send me Billy's home address so I can get to his place to see you. That is, if you want me

John's moving in with someone else showed I had nothing that he really wanted from me. Except maybe a penis.

Sweetheart, flip that switch in your thinking. Don't give him the power to reject you. Take your power back. You told him I am done with you and your excuses and lies. You rejected him for his disrespectful treatment of you. You're the one who doesn't want him and what he stands for. No accountability, no maturity, no honesty, no integrity.

Forget him. You have so much more depth and substance that that twit. I know the phrase "you deserve better" sounds like a cliche, but it is absolutely true. You area too good for this adolescent crap.

I just find it mind-blowing that he was so good to me only a few months ago, as my posts back then clearly show. Why the hell couldn't he stay that way??? I want what he was.

It would kill me if I had to rationalize that behavior. It is almost like he has two personalities. Some people compartmentalize their lives as a defense mechanism.

I can't do anything like that. The way I am is absolutely the same no matter who I am dealing with or the circumstances involved, period.

Being emotionally exhausted from my encounter with John last night caused me to miss church the next day, even missing the monthly potluck.

Being around your friends is the best thing for you right now. That person is no longer in your life. Don't let them affect you in a negative way, by making yourself suffer by avoiding friends. We all care about you greatly. 😊
